WILSON'S CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED

PRESIDENT PASSES A COMFORTABLE NIGHT ENROUTE TO CAPITAL

Train Runs at Greatest Speed That is Considered Safe.

All Engagements in Near Future Called Off By Executive.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 27.—Just before the presidential special reached Indianapolis late in the forenoon, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, Mr. Wilson's personal physician issued the following bulletin:
"The president's condition is about the same. He has had a fairly restful night."
(Signed) "GRAYSON."

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 27.—President Wilson passed a comfortable night. He appeared to be sleeping throughout. Not once did he ask for anything. Dr. Grayson, who slept in the president's car, was not aroused during the night.

SPEEDING EASTWARD
ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 27.—His speaking tour for the peace treaty interrupted by illness and exhaustion, President Wilson was well along on his journey back to Washington today, to take a complete rest on the order of his physician.
His special train shunted off from its original schedule yesterday noon at Wichita, Kansas was routed direct for the capital and had the right of way for a continuous run at the greatest speed consistent with absolute safety. It crossed the Mississippi at St. Louis early in the day and was to be well across Ohio by nightfall. It is due at Washington tomorrow morning.

Physician Near
Under the constant care of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, his physician, the president was described as resting comfortably. Dr. Grayson spent the night in the private car Mayflower so as to be near his patient, and today kept in close touch with the president's condition. He said there was nothing alarming in the situation, but that he would insist upon Mr. Wilson taking an absolute rest for a considerable time.

Mrs. Wilson, although herself showing the strain of the long trip across the continent and back, also was in constant attendance upon the president.
The president's illness, although brought to a head by his exertion on his speaking tour, is ascribed by Dr. Grayson, in large part to the attack of influenza from which Mr. Wilson suffered last April in Paris. On that occasion he was confined to bed for several days, but he continued his conferences with the other members of the "big four" consulting with them at his bedside about critical problems of the peace negotiations.

Cancels Engagements
Although Secretary Tamm announced that all of the president's appointments in the near future had been cancelled, it became known that Mr. Wilson still believed he might be able to go to New York next Friday to welcome King Albert of Belgium. Other members of the party thought it likely that the plan would be abandoned, however, and that the greeting would take place instead at Washington.

Whether the president will leave Washington for the rest Dr. Grayson has prescribed, will not be determined immediately. He will at least remain at the White House for a few days and it may be decided that the isolation desired can be secured there better than at some place away from the capital.

The president was described as in good spirits and in a telegram to the members of his family he assured them there was "nothing to be alarmed at," in his illness.

ADELINA PATTI, NOTED QUEEN OF SONG, IS DEAD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Adelina Patti, the prima donna, died this morning at Craig-y-Nos Castle, Penycae, South Wales.

Mme. Adelina Patti reigned for 40 years as queen of singers.
Mme. Patti inherited her talent. "I am a child of the stage," she had said, "being born during an operatic season at Madrid, Spain, in 1843. My father Salvatore Patti, a Sicilian, was a good tenor singer. My mother, a Roman, became a famous artist as Signora Barilli—the name of her first husband."

Dwindling finances sent the Patti family to New York when Adelina, whose birth name was Adela Juana Maria Patti, was a baby. When she was seven years old, her parents suddenly became destitute.

"In the emergency," the singer said, "my mother considered that I had extraordinary vocal talent, and hit upon the idea of bringing me out in concert. And so I sang and soon won bread for the family."
The child made her debut at Tripler Hall, in New York, singing arias from the "Barber," in 1850. She was the juvenile prodigy of the day, and nearly ruined her voice by overwork. She appeared again at the age of 18. After a tour through the West Indies, she withdrew to prepare for a greater career.

At the age of 16 she appeared in the Academy of Music, New York, in her first opera role, "Lucia di Lammermoor." Her wonderful soprano roused the audience to the wildest enthusiasm, and her fame swept the country. At this time she was earning $100 a week. She repeated her conquest as Amina in "La Sonnambula" in Covent Garden, London, in 1861. Her salary had increased to $750 a month.

"It was the beginning of a dazzling conquest of all Europe. Royalty entered and courted her favors. The palace besieged her hotels and theaters. Men in all stations of life wooed her, but she brushed them aside with a laugh and a thrill. She finally capitulated at the age of 25 to Henri, Marquis de Caux, equerry to Napoleon III. They separated after a few years, Mme. Patti finally securing a divorce in 1885 to marry Signor Ernesto Nicolini, an Italian tenor singer.

Mme. Patti held the record as a box-office star in operatic circles. When she appeared at a matinee concert in Mechanics Hall in Boston in 1888, she faced an audience which had paid $18,000 to hear her. During a single tour through South America she received in salary and bonuses more than $390,000. It has been estimated that she earned more than $5,000,000 during her singing career.

She made her final professional appearance at the age of 65 in London. Her last days were passed in Wales at her beautiful castle, "Craig-y-Nos," with her third husband Baron von Cederstom, whom she married in 1899, a year after the death of Nicolini.

Mme. Patti is reputed to have left an estate valued at more than $8,000,000.

CONSTABLE IS KILLED
PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 27.—Constable Louis Dick Metzger, 23, of Nile township, was shot and instantly killed and his brother, Earl Metzger, 29, was dangerously wounded in a gun battle at Pond Run, 15 miles from Portsmouth, with James Thompson, 31. The shooting resulted from a dispute over the right of the Metzgers to dig and take a portion of potatoes grown on lands rented by the Thompsons, of which the Metzgers were the overseers.

Steel Strikers Displaying Placards Near South Chicago Plant

This is one of the first photographs made during the great steel strike. It shows employees of the Illinois Steel Company at the plant in South Chicago displaying placards announcing the calling of the strike. The picture may aid those who are discussing whether more foreigners or Americans remained at work.

CIVIL WAR THREATENS TO BREAK OUT IN ITALY OVER FIUME SITUATION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
PARIS, Sept. 27.—Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, whose sensational raid on Fiume brought about serious complications in the Adriatic, had written an appeal to the French, the text of which is printed today by Excelsior. It begins:
"Brothers of France, you know what we have done under the inspiration and protection of our God. The most Italian of the towns of Istria, today more Italian than Verona, Pisa and Perugia, was lost to us under the menace of profanations and violations." Captain D'Annunzio explained that though ill in bed, he rose and "under the influence of spirit," with his comrades took possession of the city and territory, some ships and a part of line of the armistice, in a few hours. He declares soldiers sent against him have come over to his side with their arms.

ROME, Sept. 27.—Alarmist reports are current in this city, one of them being that a civil war is imminent. On one side would be ranged the nationalist and militarist factions which would be opposed by the socialists. Several generals are credited with the intention of heading the militarist faction with a view to controlling the government, it being said that they believe the weakness of those in power since the armistice caused the present deadlock. Some of these generals have already been mentioned as being in league with Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio before the Fiume raid, with the object of overthrowing by force the Nitti cabinet and replacing it with a military dictatorship.

The navy is represented as being even more dissatisfied than the army, having, according to naval officers' statements, suffered more from "the lack of consideration of their Anglo-French colleagues, who have acted as if they were masters of the Adriatic and have favored Jugoslav claims."

Foreign Minister Tiloni is said to have expressed the belief that first thing to be done in the present serious situation was for the cabinet to resign, thus eliminating one reason for discord—opposition to men now in power. It is said his intention was the formation of a national cabinet including all the leaders of the chief political parties, which would give the government the greatest possible power under the circumstances.

Premier Nitti instead, considered that the resignation of the cabinet would be an admission either of culpability or weakness, which would make the situation worse. He added that he "naturally was ready and desirous to be relieved of the tremendous responsibility if any one would suggest a man better fitted to cope with the terrible crisis."

Signor Tiloni was obliged to confess during a conversation with the king, it is reported, that he did not see any other politician having the statesmanlike qualities and force possessed by Signor Nitti.
Thus the idea of a resignation of the cabinet was abandoned but there is no prospect as yet of any amelioration of the gravity of the situation, nor is there a distant glimmer of a solution of the Adriatic problem.
Workmen numbering approximately one million are on strike and dissatisfaction is growing everywhere at the constantly increasing cost of living. It is impossible for the government to call any men to the colors especially after having recently pardoned all deserters under the proclamation of amnesty.

RUBBISH FIRE.
Fire originating in a pile of rubbish last night slightly damaged the barn on the premises of James Hassan, 859 east High street.

ARMY-NAVY BALLOONISTS STILL IN AIR

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 27.—None of the five contestants in the army-navy balloon race which started last night had reported a landing early today. Three of the craft represent the army and two the navy, one of the latter entrants being withdrawn because of a leak discovered at the time of starting. Shortly before midnight last night one of the balloons was reported from Mount Sterling, Ill., flying at high speed in a northerly direction at an altitude estimated at 500 feet. Another report from Cape Girardeau, Mo., said a balloon passed over that place early in the night flying low and traveling southwest. The latter report was considered puzzling in view of a later message from St. Charles, Mo., recording the observation there of all five gas bags. At the start all the entrants took off in a northwesterly direction. It is not a non-stop event and distance alone will be the deciding factor. Each balloon started with food and water for its two passengers for four days.

SENATE BODY TO HEAR SIDE OF CAPITAL NEXT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Investigation to date of the steel strike by the senate labor committee, in an effort to ascertain "if the situation can in any way be relieved by federal action" has developed the following outstanding points:
First, declaration by strike leaders that agreement by the United States Steel corporation to arbitrate differences with its employees would end the walkout.

Second, assertion by strikers' representatives that granting by Chairman Gary of the steel corporation of a hearing of their demands now would not end the strike.

Third, the view of organized labor that the issue is recognition of the right of employees "to be heard, to organize and to have some voice in determining conditions under which they labor."

These definite points were brought out in the two days' hearing by the representatives of labor to appear, John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the strikers' committee, and Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Having heard labor's side of the controversy the committee next will hear the views of the operators in the industry. Judge Gary of the steel corporation, will appear Wednesday to present that side of the controversy.

TWO BADLY HURT AT GRADE CROSSING AS AUTO IS HIT

(Clinton Bird, 58, a well known stock dealer of Ottawa and his wife Mrs. Amanda Bird, 50, were both seriously injured at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a B. and O. train at Columbus Grove. The accident occurred at the same crossing where several other fatal accidents have taken place. Mr. and Mrs. Bird were enroute to Lima to visit their daughter, Mrs. David Murt, 801 North Elizabeth street.

The victims were brought to Lima on the train, and met at the depot by ambulances which conveyed them to the city hospital. Mr. Bird is the more seriously injured of the two, being badly cut about the head and body. It is not known whether he was internally injured. Mrs. Bird was also severely cut and bruised, but no bones were broken. They were reported to be resting as easy as could be expected this morning, and had spent a fairly restful night.

ENGINEERS TO GET RAISE.
Dr. Charles Clark who returned yesterday from a conference with superintendents of state institutions held at Toledo, Thursday, announced that engineers at the institutions would probably come in for a wage increase within a short time. Other employees will not get increases at this time despite the fact that many of them are poorly paid.

Vote of Employees On Pay Day Shows Desire to Return.

Pittsburgh Region Waiting For Next Week's Happenings

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 27.—Following a canvass of employees as they received their pay today, officials of the Ohio works of the Carnegie Steel Company here announced that an attempt will be made on Monday to re-open the mill. The announcement marks the first effort at resumption in the Mahoning Valley since the steel strike caused all its plants to close.

Employees of the Ohio works who held a meeting last night voted 82 to 29 to return to work "when the proper time presents itself," according to a statement given out after the meeting. A committee was appointed, the statement said, to induce railroad men in the mill yards to join the movement to return.

SITUATION UNCHANGED
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 27.—The close of the first week of the steel workers' strike was not expected to see any radical changes in the situation. Both sides today virtually marked time waiting for Monday when both steel companies and strike leaders expect change. Steel company officials said they did not expect any considerable number of men to return to the mills today, but did look for a general influx with the beginning of the new week.

Strike leaders are prepared for any alleged attempts of the companies to make a breach in the ranks of the strikers. Mass meetings were planned for late this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow in a number of places, in the expectation of holding the men already out and persuading wavering workers to join the strikers.

Chief interest about strike headquarters today was the meeting of the steel workers' national committee. The meeting was called to take action on the proposed strike against the Bethlehem Steel Company, called for Monday.

WILL NOT RETURN
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 27.—Employees of the plate department of the Brier Hill Steel Company, having voted against going back to work and those of the open hearth and rolling mills departments of the Ohio works of the Carnegie Steel Company, meeting but failing to vote on the question, Youngstown today is wondering what will be the next move in the attempt to settle the steel strike and re-open the mills to the 44,000 men who are idle in this district.

Union men say yesterday's efforts to obtain an expression from the men on the question of returning to work were moves made by the companies and that they were a complete failure and only show the strength of the strike. The companies contend they had no connection with the meetings and assert that they were voluntary efforts on the part of the men themselves to settle the strike.

WEATHER NEXT WEEK
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Weather predictions at week beginning Monday are:

OHIO VALLEY, generally fair; temperatures somewhat below normal early days, nearly normal thereafter.

REGION OF GREAT LAKES, generally fair; temperatures below normal early days with frost probable; nearly normal thereafter.

ANOTHER BIG DAY IN TIMES PRIZE CAMPAIGN

Many Contestants Already Entered and More Will Be Enrolled Before Night in the "Big Drive" Now On.

Now is the Time to Get in the Race and Win the $1835 Willys-Knight or Other Fine Prizes—No One Loses.

(By Arnold H. Prime)

The Lima Times' Great Automobile Prize Campaign, is now the theme of conversation in thousands of homes in Allen and adjoining counties, and every hour brings inquiries from interested readers of The Times who are either thinking of entering the campaign themselves or have some friend whom they would like to see win a valuable prize. Several nominations have been made, and numerous contestants have started out after subscriptions in order to save the triple votes offered for each NEW subscription for one year or more.

The Times does not intend for anyone to be a loser in this campaign, and will give each and every contestant not winning a prize, a cash commission of ten per cent on all they turn in on subscriptions during the entire contest. Never before has a newspaper in this state made so generous an offer as The Times is making during this big subscription campaign which makes this proposition vastly different from all previous campaigns. The plan of giving each contestant something for their efforts has met with the hearty approval of all. Many favorable comments have been heard on all sides.

SMITH GETS JOB

According to information received from the safety department, this morning, L. Smith, who has been serving extra on the fire department was appointed a regular member by Safety Director Gale.

prizes in this campaign—the person who really gets out and hustles and secures the greater number of Times subscriptions will win. Nothing else counts.

The BEST AND ONLY way to win is by taking advantage of the EXTRA vote offers, and especially the TRIPLE offer for every NEW subscription which is in effect until Thursday night October 2.

Contestants may secure subscriptions in any district other than their own. You may get them ANYWHERE, you are NOT held to your own district when getting subscriptions. The district plan is made only for the reason of more evenly dividing the prizes.

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another. If a contestant drops out of the campaign, their votes are counted lost. A commission of 10 per cent will be paid to every contestant who remains active until the finish, on every dollar they turn in.

How to Get Votes

If you belong to an organization, church, lodge or society, let your fellow members know you are in to win. It pays to advertise. They will help you if they know you are really interested and want to land a prize.

Don't wait for your friends to bring you their subscriptions, but go to them before some other contestant beats you to it.

Don't let a single day pass without making appreciable gains by landing several subscriptions, for subscriptions means votes, and votes means prizes. Success is the reward of persistency.

CROSSLEY BLOCK S. MAIN, BIGGEST DEAL PAST WEEK

Work On Citizens' B. & L. Structure is Being Rapidly Pushed

MOOSE CEREMONIES

To Attend Laying of Cornerstone of Their New Club Home

One of the largest real estate deals made during the past week was the purchase by B. A. Weadock, Lima real estate dealer, of the Crossley block at 711-713 South Main street from L. E. Ludwig. The building which is three stories is valued at about $25,000. The sale was just completed Monday. Mr. Weadock buying the property simply as an investment.

The lower floor of the building is occupied by a grocery store, tire shop and a billiard parlor, while the upper floors are used for apartment purposes.

P. A. Kahle, Lima real estate dealer has sold his property at 708 West North street to Eli Hardin, for a reported consideration of $7,500. Mr. Hardin is making some necessary repairs on the house before moving into it. It is located just west of the G. E. Blum residence.

Work on the handsome new building of the Citizens' Building and Loan Company, which is being erected on the site of the former Feldman and Company store, is progressing very rapidly, at the present time the structural work on the seventh story has been started. The building will be one of the most modern in this part of the city, and will be the highest in the city, as the plans call for eight stories. The two lower stories are in fact double the height of single stories, really making the building when completed 10 stories high.

It is hardly probable that the structure will be completed before the middle of the coming year. It is being erected at an approximate cost of $80,000 not including interior furnishings.

Word on the construction of the new Moose club at the corner of West and North street is progressing rapidly, and plans are now being outlined by officials for the laying of the cornerstone which will probably be held during the early part of October. W. S. Odenkirk, deputy district supervisor of the Loyal Order of Moose, Pittsburgh, is in the city to make plans for the laying of the cornerstone, at which occasion the supreme officers and surrounding lodges will be represented.

R. B. Holland, Lima real estate dealer has announced plans for the erection of a six story apartment house at 118 West Spring street, and which when completed will house from 15 to 20 families. Mr. Holland recently purchased the property from Elmer D. Webb for a consideration of $10,000. The entire lot 50 by 50 feet will be used. The plans for the building call for a strictly fire-proof structure.

Work on the new building will not be started before the first of the year, and it will probably be ready for occupancy by the summer. Mr. Holland has also purchased the corner lot at Spring and Central avenue where he plans to build a smaller apartment. This property was also purchased from Webb for $4,000.

Harold Smith, local real estate man has sold his property at the corner of Charles and State street, to John Sonnenfeld, for a consideration of $8,000. Mr. Sonnenfeld recently sold his home at 417 South Jameson, to Dr. E. D. Sinks.

Mr. Smith has built a beautiful new home at the corner of State and Elm street, which is now ready for occupancy. It cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Dr. Smith, of Cincinnati has purchased a property on West High street from Mrs. Hazel Hoeb, for a home for his mother. The deal was made by I. W. Green.

E. J. Kirk, of the Cadillac Garage, has purchased the Dr. Van Note property at the corner of Jameson and High streets, for a consideration of $15,000. Mr. Kirk will hold it for the present as an investment.

The terrace being built on South Cole street by Lee C. Faurot is rapidly nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy about the first of November. The terrace is one of the most complete in the city, and has practically every kind of modern conveniences, including a circulating cold and hot water sysgarage is being built, with two separate apartments overhead, which will be occupied by the mechanic's families. It is costing in the neighborhood of $20,000.

LEAVE YOUR ESTATE IN TRUST.

Has your wife as good a business head as you have? If not, isn't there a great risk of your widow finding a steady shrinkage of your estate after you have gone? Widows have ever been the marks for investment sharks, the playthings of unscrupulous trustees, administrators and trusted friends and the victims of their own anxiety to speculate in schemes that promise glowing, but fictitious, profits.

Why not leave the destiny of your widow's fortune and your children's heritage in the hands of a reliable, trustworthy institution like this that has the facilities, the resources and the business judgment to make sound and safe investments and to manage the financial affairs of your family in a manner that will give you confidence of their security after you have had to forego their protection.

The God of Battle

SERGEANT ALVIN C. YORK, proclaimed the "Greatest Yank in the War," devoutly clings to his belief that prayer to God saved him in the midst of battle dangers in France.

In a brief, but effectively delivered talk recently, York declared: "I was praying continually to God that He would protect me and that I would come home without a scratch from a German."

The fact that the tall mountain boy from Pall Mall, Tenn., did return to the United States, and to his home and loved ones without any indication of injury, after what he passed through in the Argonne fight, lends force to his argument that the praying soldier is not altogether overlooked by Divinity.

It would probably be unfair to think that everyone who prayed during the days of battle in France escaped without a scratch, but there are sufficient testimonials in hand from those whose devotion and confidence in their Maker led them to put their trust in Him during the harrowing experiences "over there," to warrant the belief that the God of Battles had some hand in preserving life and deciding the destinies of peoples and individuals.

Sergeant Alvin C. York is a real Christian. He lives his religion as well as he talks about it. "I live and practice full salvation every day of my life," he is quoted as saying in a speech sometime ago. This might in many other seems egotism and self praise, but with this boy from the mountains who lives every day within the presence of God's handiwork; who sees evidences about him constantly of a Divine plan; to whom the very trees and flowers and rocks appear part of God's wonderful achievements—one cannot gain any other impression than York is practical in his religion and means every word he says.

Who knows but that the guiding hand of Divinity led this chap through the terrible days of battle and permitted him to emerge.

What Hoover Says

HERBERT HOOVER is not a politician. So little is he concerned with politics that not one person in a thousand knows which party he belongs to. But Mr. Hoover is a man of sound sense, good judgment and a genuine interest in human welfare. He is particularly well informed as to economic and health conditions in the war-stricken areas of Europe. Returning to America a few days ago, fresh from close inspection of Poland and other lands where desperation prevails, Mr. Hoover declares that the most important thing for this country to do is to ratify the peace treaty this month. The reason is so plain that it cannot be disputed. "Until peace is made Europe cannot get back to work and production." Not only the belligerents, but the new nations born out of the war, will be unable to borrow money, establish financial systems, resume transportation, devise any system of maintaining internal order or undertake foreign commerce. In Poland, according to Mr. Hoover and to other testimony from reliable witnesses, conditions prevailing during the period of uncertainty are "worse than war."

Even if America were not concerned about the return of normal conditions to Europe as a matter of humanity, her own self-interest should compel a deep interest in the removal of idleness, unrest, and suffering. For it is impossible, no matter how much we may undertake in the way of legislation, to restore the cost of living to normal in this country while such industrial and political chaos prevails in the other half of the world. And it is likewise futile to expect any headway against the social unrest and industrial extremism which is spreading from this nation so long as every conceivable impulse to Bolshevism is allowed to flourish overseas by reason of a status which is "neither peace nor war."

The indifference of a large number of United States senators to these obvious facts is beyond the comprehension of the citizen whose common sense grasps the meaning of Mr. Hoover's warning. To announce unceremoniously that the treaty "may" be disposed of—either ratified or returned to the conference for reconsideration—by November 1, while the whole world is seething like a suppressed volcano is an example of senatorial imperturbability which deserves the severest possible rebuke from citizens of all parties.

HAPPY THOUGHT: Put Poland for president.

The German Indemnity

THE PEACE TREATY speaks of it as "reparation," and does not use the word "indemnity," but regardless of the language of the treaty, we find several countries now wrangling among themselves concerning the proportion of the money they are to receive from Germany—and "indemnity" is what they call it.

That Canada, whose share has not been definitely fixed, claims she should have more than Australia, whose share is said to be sixty million pounds. New Zealand hopes to get ten million pounds, but thinks that is not enough if Canada and Australia are to have the former amount.

A Canadian newspaper, in discussing the matter says that it is to be hoped that nobody will sit down and wait for the indemnity to be paid. "Some men," the paper says, "wait in hopeful idleness for rich relatives to die, believing they will share in the wealth that the dead can not take away with them. They would be better off physically, mentally and materially if they worked in the meantime." It is an apt way of putting it, and displays much wisdom.

Germany must be made to pay—and will be made to pay—whether it is called indemnity or reparation. But our guess is that there will be so much wrangling over a division of the money that nobody will be the better off when the amount is received.

And, by the way, isn't it about time for someone to send in a request that we print that classic of the late Mr. Riley relative to the most being on the pumpkin.

We've heard and read some comment on music in heaven and the impression seems to prevail that there is going to be a lot of harp playing, but personally we believe the best music in heaven will be mother scraping the gravy skillet.

We see by the newspapers that we have been sending gold to Spain, but we presume the "we" is not meant to be personal.

GOOD EVENING—"The world is never going to learn that by putting things off you mortgage tomorrow."

The Times' Family Doctor

WHAT YOU OUGHT TO KNOW
AND DO ABOUT YOUR DAILY BATH

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

Honest water never left man in the mire. Its lure is the same in a purring stream, at seashore or in the old swimming pool.

Aside from its chief purpose of cleanliness, the daily bath improves the texture of the skin in an amazing fashion. It tones up the quality of the cuticle until a really plain face is made lovely, and renders a beautiful complexion even more charming and attractive before.

You may have forgotten that when you speak of the skin as "the third lung" you are minimizing its importance. The skin discharges twice as much waste matter as do the lungs.

The daily bath—and in some instances the bath twice a day—is not a luxury. It is a necessity. It does not, as some ignorants assume, destroy the oils of the skin.

The tepid bath in the morning, followed by a slightly cooler shower or splash with sponge or hands is best for many persons.

Your skin may happen to be exceedingly thin and annoyingly sensitive. If it were one of the hardier more durable sort, you should try this method of bathing. Take first a hot tub bath, as hot as could be comfortably borne. Then, if you are strong enough and your physician has vouched for the fact, you would take a cold plunge or shower afterward. Do not remain under the icy shower for more than one minute however.

Twenty-Minute Swim

After that you should have a brisk rubdown, not with a soft linen towel but with a big, coarse Turkish towel.

At river and shore resorts never go into the water too soon after meals. The time preferable to bathe is 11 o'clock in the morning.

If you happen to have a good bath-house with a shower, turn on the cold shower. Let your bathing suit be soaked well with cold water before you plunge into the surf.

You will not be shocked then by the relative coldness of the bath. Water is always different in the temperature from the air. If the atmosphere is hot the water will usually feel cold. If the day is dull and gray and cold the water will seem to be warm.

This may deceive you to remain in too long. Then blue skin, shivers and perhaps sneezes, sniffles and coughs may mar the rest of your vacation.

You may remain in your bathing clothes, as boys do in camp almost all day, and roam the beach as much as you please. You should not, however, remain in the water over twenty minutes or so, except under exceptional circumstances.

When to Bathe

Commonly, you will find it advisable to bathe an hour or less before a prospective, hearty meal. In this way the exercise, the removal of waste and energy can be properly and completely restored by the milk, eggs, fruit, cereals, nuts, vegetables, creams and other rations absorbed by your digestive powers.

In very hot weather whenever there is opportunity to rest and relax afterwards, a person of robust health with good endurance can take two dips in the ocean a day, besides his morning bath at home.

Finally good, clear water is to the skin very much what fine, fresh, sunlit air is to the lungs. Moreover, it helps to carry away by osmotic pressure a lot of refuse and worn-out particles beneath the skin.

Answers to Health Questions.

S. A. C. Q.—What can I use to fatten my neck?

A—Massage your neck with a little cocoa butter.

A SUBSCRIBER. Q.—What can I do for gray hair?

A—Henna leaves 1 ounce
Boiling water 1 quart

Place the henna leaves in the boiling water and let it stand all night. In the morning, strain and heat to the boiling point. Add two ounces of henna powder, stir and strain. Brush this into the clean hair. It is harmless and very effective. But why try to change something which may be very beautiful?

J. P. V. A.—If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your query repeated I will be glad to answer questions.

WORRIED. Q.—What can I do for white spots on my skin?

A—One kind is incurable, others are merely temporary from sickness, anemia, indoor life, need of fresh air, meats, fresh vegetables and uncovered, unscoured rations. An outdoor life in the sunlight assists in the treatment. Rub a little of the following into the white spots each night:

Blands mass 1 dram
Yellow vasoline ½ ounce
Lanolin ½ ounce

Short Stories of the Buckeye State

MCKINLEY'S DEFEAT

What must have seemed very bitter defeats to William McKinley were really the prelude to the movement that was to carry him to the highest position in the country. They came in rapid succession in the midst of his political career. He was elected to congress in 1876, 1878, 1880, 1882, 1884, 1886, 1888. But in 1889 his democratic opponent J. H. Wallace, contested the election and the Democratic house awarded the contestant the seat. General dissatisfaction with the new tariff bill of 1890 that bore McKinley's name had adversely affected the affairs of the Republican party and brought the election in that usually strong republican district to the point of contest.

In his first term in congress he had shown himself a pronounced protectionist in his support of the Wood tariff bill and though his views were less radical in later years he was looked upon as a strong high tariff advocate to the end of his career. This fact led to his promotion to membership in the committee on ways and means when Garfield was transferred to the senate and then to the White House.

His first great defeat came in the 51st congress. It seemed to him and to his friends that his position on the ways and means committee and his work for protection entitled him to election as speaker of that congress and he became a candidate, but was defeated by Thomas B. Reed of Maine. But that defeat assured him of election as chairman of the ways and means committee and gave him the opportunity to show his mettle and to make himself later the logical candidate of the party that had made protection one of its chief tenets for the presidency.

Right upon this came his defeat for re-election to congress in 1890 by John G. Warwick. It must have seemed to him that the gates were closing against him in the road to further political preferment. But that defeat, blamed by his friends on a gerrymander of his district, made him presently the logical candidate of his party for governor, and the four years he spent in that office constituted a period for the maturing of his plans for a successful campaign for the presidency.

OUR BED-TIME STORY

FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

You remember, in yesterday's story Signor Angelo was telling about Peter and how he saved the city of Lucerne.

"Well," continued Angelo "Peter followed through the woods and into the end of an old tunnel. A little ways from the end of it the men stopped. Peter could hear them talking with the traitor who had waited for them there. The traitor told them the number of men in the city, the best time to attack the city and

Most of the Austrians wanted to kill him immediately, fearing that he would tell of their plans, but it was finally decided to let him go after making him swear that he wouldn't tell 'a living soul' about the plot to take the city.

"Peter knew that he would be killed unless he agreed to promise not to tell 'a living soul' what he had heard so he promised and was allowed to go home.

"As soon as he was out of sight of the Austrians he ran for all he was worth straight to the city. He found many of the men of the city at a meeting in a great hall, discussing the defense of the city against attacks of the Austrians although they had no idea any attempt would be made so soon to take it.

"Now, Peter had been taught never to break an oath or a promise, so he tried to think of some way to warn his people without breaking his oath. As he burst into the hall he decided upon a plan. Walking up to the stove in the center of the room, he said:

"Oh, stove, I have heard important news tonight." And then, talking to the stove just as though it were a human being like you and I, Peter told all about the plot to capture the city and how the plot to capture was to be used by the Austrians to get their troops into the city.

"Then he left the hall happy in the thought that he had saved his people without 'telling a living soul'.

"When the Austrians rushed through the tunnel, the next night, expecting to find the city asleep and defenseless, they found a small army of men waiting for them fully armed and ready to fight to the last man.

"The Austrians were driven away with great losses and never have tried since to take Lucerne or the country about it."

ROWLANDS-FURNITURE

Lieut. John Philip Sousa who recently retired from the United States naval service after having served throughout the war as chief bandmaster at the Great Lakes Training Station, has gathered his old and seasoned bandsmen about him once more and is making a comprehensive tour of the country for the first time in four years.

Lieut. Sousa had full charge during the war of the training of all the bandsmen who were enlisted for service in the navy. On several occasions, as many as one thousand musicians were under his direct control at the naval station. These were divided into groups of 250 each under the direction of assistant bandmasters. Lieut. Sousa took turns in directing them and on several occasions brought the entire thousand together in one enormous band, probably the largest single group of instrumentalists ever heard together at one time in the recorded history of the world.

"SOUSA" as he appeared as director of the Naval Band at Great Lakes. For his services he received the princely sum of $1.00 per year from the government.

OF

SIXTY REAL ARTISTS—NINE OF WHICH ARE SOLOISTS

UNDER THE PERSONAL DIRECTION OF

MEMORIAL HALL, LIMA, OHIO, OCTOBER 7th, 1919.

When Lieut. John Philip Sousa was actively engaged in his duties in the the United States Naval Reserve Force during the war he said one day to an interviewer:

"After the war I want to get my old band together again. While my whole heart is concerned in the development of these boys that are under me in the service, I am afraid my soul—part of it at least—is with my old organization. That was MY band. Most of those old boys of mine are playing in and around New York. Some day I hope to go back to them—for they are waiting for me."

It is pleasant to record that Sousa's desire has been gratified for he has been honorably discharged from the service and already his original band of 29 years standing has been mobilized again for a coast-to-coast tour.

THE PEOPLE OF LIMA AND VICINITY SHOULD KNOW

Sunday In The Churches

The Rev. Kyle Booth, the past few years pastor of the Congregational church, Amherst, Ohio, has accepted a call to the First Congregational church. He will arrive in Lima on October 15 to assume his duties.

The Rev. Mr. Booth delivered the sermon at the Congregational church September 14 and made a favorable impression with the congregation.

At a meeting a unanimous call was extended to the minister.

The Christian Endeavorers of South Side Church of Christ, corner Kibby street and Central Avenue, will conduct a revival during the week of September 29th. Good speakers have been secured and the subjects they will discuss are of vital importance to Christian Endeavor. Special music will also have a part in each service.

A special invitation is extended to the Christian Endeavorers of Allen County and to the Christian—whether an Endeavorer or not—to be present at these meetings.

The following is a general outline of the program for the week:

Monday, September 29th, 7:30 p. m. Address by Mr. Penorwood, Bluffton, on the "Quiet Hour." Duet by Miss Mayme Newland and Miss Dorothy McBride.

Tuesday, fellowship supper in basement of church at 6:30 p. m., 7:30 p. m. Address by Miss Tschantz, state junior superintendent. Solo by Mr. Biddle, industrial Y. M. C. A. secretary. Address by Mr. Arthur E. Whitney, secretary of Ohio C. E. union. Solo by Mr. O. R. Roberts.

Wednesday, 7:30 p. m. Address by Mr. Ludwig, Lima, on "Christian Citizenship." Solo by Mr. Otto Hoffman.

Thursday, 7:30 p. m. Address by Miss Johnson, director of Y. M. C. A. on "Christian Ideals Among Young People." Solo by Mr. O. R. Roberts.

Sunday, October 6th. The Christian Endeavorers will take an active part in the regular church services on this day. A direct appeal will be made to the young people.

What Did You Have for Breakfast This Morning?

Did you serve your family expensive eggs and bacon or did you heap a plate full of golden brown, toasted Butter-Nut Bread?

Do you offer them insipid, tasteless, mushy breakfast foods or do you allow them to eat their fill of tasty, nutritious toasted Butter-Nut Bread?

Toast the slices of Butter-Nut Bread to an even golden brown and spread with good butter. You will be unusual if you do not try a slice before you take it to the table. The appeal of its golden brown crispness is beyond resistance; its appetizing aroma will catch you.

In less time than it takes to tell if the toast will disappear before the determined appetites of a family tired of the usual breakfast foods. Toast Butter Nut Bread for your family in the morning.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tabler, of the Marion road, celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary last Sunday when they invited a number of neighbors and relatives in for the day. At noon there was a delicious picnic dinner served to the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Craig, son, Paul, and daughter, Glesna; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tabler and daughters, Hazel and Martha; Mr. and Mrs. Reed Tabler, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Beach and son, Karl, and Mary Cleveland, all of Lima; Otto McKinney, the Misses Adda and Nettie McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Luther McKinney and son, John, all of Harrod; Mrs. Amanda Perkins, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McKinney and sons, Howard and Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gierhart, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wheeler, all of Lima; Mrs. Catherine Boone and daughter, Galsna, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams all of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blair and Miss Dora Shirkey, Lima.

DINNER.

Emmett R. Curtin, Jr., invited a few friends in to dinner at the Country club Friday evening in honor of Miss Marion Sullivan, who left Saturday for Indianapolis, where she will join a party of friends and enjoy a tour of the eastern states by motor. The dinner was a great success, and following the guests returned to the city and attended the Strollers dance at the Wayfarers club rooms.

Guests included Miss Marion, Miss Hazel Wright, Miss Marian Dunn, Miss Esther Roberts, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Joe Gooding, Ralph Mackenzie and Ralph Sweeney.

FORMER LIMA NURSE.

Lima friends of Miss Mary Hall, Lafayette girl and former Lima nurse, are pleased to learn of her marriage September 15th, to Perry B. Shoup, old operator whose interests are in Oklahoma. The wedding took place at Ordmore, Oklahoma, and they are now making their home in Tulsa.

INFORMAL PARTY.

Miss Florence Moore, of south Cole street, entertained delightfully Friday evening with an informal dancing party. It was a very informal party, but a thoroughly enjoyable affair. The hostess served a delicious buffet luncheon at 10 o'clock, to the following guests, Miss Katherine Welby, Miss Madge Brees, and Miss Dorothy Welby, and Ted Sider, Ralph Sider, of Wapakoneta; Frank Rakestraw and Rolo Kent.

PICTURE PARTY.

A party of the week was that of Thursday evening when Miss Lulu H. entertained a circle of friends at her home on east Albert street. There was plenty of music and dancing, dainty refreshments completing the evening's entertainment.

Guests enjoying the evening were, Miss Esther Mikrell, Miss Dona Klotz, Miss Catherine and Miss Louise Moore, Miss Catherine Hines, Miss Leona Tapp, and Miss Minnie and Miss Nova Lanier.

Walter Burns, of Detroit, is visiting at the C. F. Stolzheim home on west Market street.

CUTICURA HEALS PIMPLES ON FACE

Neck and Head. Hard, Red and Scaled. Itched Terribly.

"Pimples broke out on my face, neck and head. They would fester and run, and were about as large as a bean. They were hard and red, and they scaled over and they itched terribly. I scratched them and they would become irritated, and they caused disfigurement. My hair fell out, and was thin, lifeless and dry. This trouble lasted three years before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used four cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Paul R. Tedford, Shawneetown, Ill.

XXI—MRS. CARLTON'S STORY

Mrs. Carlton's calm statement of her relations with Captain Chiswold sent through me a queer thrill of admiration for her courage. What a different woman I was! I would flirt and lure and insinuate, but the coward in me kept me on the right side of the fence. I feared for the world's opinion, not for my own soul. There was nothing sporting or honest in my attitude toward life.

"Please go on," I urged, as she paused again.

"I shouldn't tell you this. I know women well enough to realize that I'm sounding the knell of my own existence in your set. But I don't believe I care any longer. It's all so futile, I shan't try again, so you might as well know the true story when I've gone away."

"You're not going away! Don't let one man down you! Besides you're perfectly safe from him. He's got more to lose than you. He's married, you know, and has rather a bit of position to maintain in the Flying Corps."

"But don't you know, dear child, that the man always escapes? It's the woman who faces the firing squad of public opinion. When there's nothing in the world to go on, but rumor and suspicion, she is sentenced just the same. That is why I want to tell you my story, for you've taken the wrong trail, and remorse and bitter grief are at the end of it."

"When I married James Duval," she went on, "I was as keen for life and gayety and admiration as you. He was a lace importer and we lived abroad most of the time in Brussels and Paris, spending our holidays at Ostend and Nice. It was at Nice that I met Morley Chiswold. He fancied me immediately—why I scarcely know—because he had the reputation of worshipping beauty and had many affairs. There was much gossip about him wherever he went—you can see how fascinating he is—and it went to my foolish girlish head to have him pay me attention.

"My husband was away from home a great deal on purchasing trips—just as yours is," she added, "and his absences were filled with Morley Chiswold. We sat on the sands, bathed in the surf together, and danced and supped, always together. I believed that I was infatuated with him, but I loved my husband."

WOMANS MUSIC CLUB

The officers of the Womens Music Club were at Harmons all day Saturday to give out the year books. There are still quite a number which have not been called for, and next Wednesday, the officers will again be at Harmons from 9 until 5, which will be the last time afforded as associate members of getting their books. There is a waiting list of over one hundred for associate membership and the places of all those who do not call for their books at the appointed time will be filled from those on the list.

The first matinee recital will be on October 9th at Memorial Hall. At this time Martha S. Steele, the Pittsburgh contralto will be heard. She will sing the contralto solo parts in Cadman's "Robin Woman" or "Shanewis." Her accompanist will play as piano numbers the other parts.

On October 28th, the Cincinnati Symphony will be heard at Memorial Hall.

S. C. D. CLUB

The S. C. D. Club was entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Sieber, of West Spring Street, when Mrs. Sieber entertained the members and their husbands. There was an evening of cards and music. A supper was served at eleven o'clock.

Following the card games, Mrs. H. J. Ellerman and D. Simons held high score and were presented with gifts.

This was the first meeting of the year and there was a short business meeting preceding the playing, when Mrs. W. A. Wagner was elected president; Mrs. A. M. Finck, vice president; and Mrs. Dan Simons, secretary.

Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beck, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ellerman, Mr. and Mrs. Max Falk, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cardoso, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. BREAKFAST

It was a very pretty breakfast, that of Saturday morning, when Miss Mary Duffield a popular bride-elect of October, was again honored, Mrs. Frances Durbin and Mrs. Robert Horn admirably filling the role of hostesses. Breakfast was served at ten thirty at the Country club.

Manley Sealts, of West Market street, left Saturday for Staunton, Virginia, where he will enter Staunton Military Academy for the coming winter. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Sealts, accompanied him by motor as far as Cincinnati.

Miss Marian Dunn, is leaving Monday for New York, where she will sail October 4th for England.

Harry Dickey of Toledo arrived this afternoon to spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dickey of West Wayne street. Allen Dickey and wife of Ft. Wayne and Irvin Dicken of Toledo are expected to arrive Sunday, for a homecoming for their brother, Olen Dickey, who arrived this week after a years service overseas. He is the last of three brothers all in Military service to arrive home from France.

EIGHTEEN TOWNS WITHOUT LIGHT BY BREAK AT DELPHOS

DELPHOS, Sept. 27.—The people of Delphos were forced to get along without electric lights and power Friday morning. They were not alone in this, however, as the people in 17 other communities in Northwestern Ohio were also without light while about forty manufacturing institutions were forced to suspend operations because of a double break at the plant of the North Western Ohio Light company in this city. At about 12.15 Friday morning the light plant was compelled to cut off their big turbine engines, draw their fires and suspend operations because of the splitting of the valve heads on the two boiler feed pumps. The breakage was very likely due to defective castings. It was a singular coincidence that both of the heads should break at the same time.

Simon Good, living about four miles east of Delphos, had 208 fine chickens when he retired one night this week. When he awoke in the morning eight of the chickens were still there but the other two hundred had disappeared. Mr. Good is wondering whether the party who took the two hundred ever looked the eight or whether he intended to return later for them.

Two cases involving local firms are now pending in "Square Bliss" court. Charges in both cases are for violation of the pure food laws and are preferred by a state inspector.

One charge is filed against Roth Brothers alleging the sale of meat containing coloring materials contrary to the pure food laws. Roth Brothers state that no meat of this description was sold by them. They will fight the charge. Their hearing has been set for October 2.

The second case is a charge of selling skimmed milk which has been placed against Jos. L. Fortener and Son.

XIV.--A DAY'S WORK: SIX VICTORIES

Thorn Taylor, Will Palmer, Crafty Sparks, Ham Coolidge and I Put the 94th in the Lead

WITH the beginning of October, the 94th Squadron took on a new phase of air fighting. We were taken away from the General Orders affecting the 1st Pursuit Wing and were ordered to patrol the lines at low altitude, not exceeding 2,000 feet. This meant serious business to us, for not only would we be under more severe enemy fire, but we would be an easy target for the higher Hun formations, who could pounce down upon us at their own pleasure.

These new orders were intended to provide a means of defense against the low-flying enemy machines which came over our lines. Usually they were protected by fighting machines. Rarely did they attempt to penetrate to any considerable distance back of No Man's Land. They came over to follow the lines and see what we were doing on our front, leaving to their high flying photographic machines the inspection of our rear.

On October 2 Reed Chambers led out the first patrol under these new orders. He had five machines with him and I went along on a voluntary patrol, to see how the new scheme was going to work out. In order to get somewhat in a protective capacity, I took a higher level and followed them back and forth over their head at 2,000 feet or more above them.

The course of this patrol was between Sures, St. Maurice and Remagen. We had turned back towards the west at the end of one beat and were nearing the eastern terminus point when I observed a two-seater Hanover machine of the enemy trying to steal across our lines behind us. He was quite low and was already across the front when I first discovered him.

In order to tempt him a little more I went away from his head and made no sign of noticing him, but I started down to my lower speed and continued straight ahead with some climb. The pilot in Chambers' formation was now in my rear and had evidently not seen the intruder at all as yet.

Calculating the positions of our two machines, as we drew away from each other, I decided I could not cut off the Hanover before he reached his lines, even if he saw me the moment I turned. Accordingly I turned swiftly back, coming at a point just behind our front where I estimated our meeting place to be. To my surprise, however, the enemy machine did not come for me, but continued about on his path. Was this because, possibly, he was mixed with abundant self-confidence or built the pilot and observer seen me up above them? I wondered what manner of aviator I had to do with, as I turned after him and the distance between us narrowed.

A victory seemed so near that I feared some deep strategy lay behind it all. I hesitated and I stood up in their rear, but the observer did not even look about him to see if his rear was safe. At two yards I fired my sight upon the gliding observer in his rear cockpit and he began to rise. He had but one gun mounted upon a turntable and this gun was not even pointing in my direction. After my first shot he would swing it around, I conjectured, and I would be compelled then to come in through his stream of bullets. Well, I had two guns to his one and he would have to be doubly the amount of bullets from my guns. Now I was at 500 yards and could not miss. Taking deliberate aim I pulled both triggers. The observer fell back over the side of his cockpit without firing a shot. The machine was seen to rise a few feet, but it was not long before it began to roll over and then to come down as my first shots began to take effect.

My Guns Jam. Hearing of the pilot I heard his two shots and a gun clicking in position as he reloaded and had him at my mercy. And at that very moment both of my guns jammed.

Informed at this point of what had happened, I had the thought to realize that the enemy pilot did not know I could not shoot, so I again came up and turned him to make a turn in the air to avoid that he would get a first position and at that moment I saw Reed Chambers flying directly towards me, the rest of his patrol streaming in along behind him. Reed was being so close. His two guns, indeed the pilot and the observer, seemed with a gradual glide to come among the shell holes that covered the ground just north of that point. I had two miles within our grasp.

It was the first machine that I had brought down behind our lines or as close to being down for Reed Chambers. I had this victory with me in my mind when we were able to fly it again.

A few minutes' work with my guns cleared the air. I had had little attention to the work of my pilots during this operation and indeed had scarcely noticed where my aeroplane was taking me through the air. For I had to work with one hand holding the lower and the other pressing back the feeding mechanism of the guns, and the Spad was taking care of itself. Now after clearing out the crashed carriages, I had just fired a few rounds into Germany, to see that the guns were both in working order, when suddenly a fifty yards in front of me I saw a whole flock of enemy Fokkers passing through a thin stratum of clouds. It was an ideal hiding place for a surprise attack, and they had been lying in wait for our Spads without noticing me until I almost bumped into them.

Wing and nose performing a double quick spin out of their range. All eight of them were on top of me firing as they followed my gyrations. Tracer bullets went whizzing past me every second and, try as I might, I could not select an opening that would permit me to slip through them with any hope of safety. The earth was rapidly coming up to meet me and the Fokkers were as ravenously bent on my destruction as ever when I opened up my must and dove vertically towards the ground with throaty wailing. As I did so I was conscious that other machines were coming in from behind me and that the Fokkers had suddenly left off firing their deadly flaming bullets. Glancing back I saw my own Spad had arrived in the very nick of time. Reed Chambers was in pursuit of the fleeing Hun and the whole circus was climbing southward to gain the shelter of the low-lying clouds.

Reed saw they would gain their protection before he could overtake them. With his usual good judgment he let them proceed until the last man was swallowed up, then he turned suddenly to the north and sought a place between them and their lines where they might be expected to issue out and make for home. Climbing for all I was worth, I arrived at the northern edge of the cloud-bank at the same time Reed reached there. We had made one or two circles just beneath the billowy mass of white when out burst the leader of the Hun over our heads and one by one his formation followed him.

Reed and I Bring Down Two Huns. In a voice Reed and I were under the last Fokkers' tails. Reed took the left charies and armament officers in general, in walked Lieutenant Crocker, whom Cook had left behind him at Grand Pre.

Cookie Gets His Balloon. "Congratulations," said Crocker triumphantly. "That was certainly fine work! You got him with his truck, office and all, this time."

Cook looked at Crocker with some anger and much mortification. "Got what?" he shouted rather violently. Ordinarily Cookie was the sweetest tempered man in the outfit, barring Jimmy Moisson.

"Why, the Hun balloon!" replied Crocker, looking at him indignantly. "Didn't you see him go up in flames? He hung fire for a half minute owing to the dew and dampness on the outside, but when he started he went with one burst!"

Cook stood looking at his friend anxiously for a moment. There was no question about his seriousness and truth. Then Cookie said slowly: "Well, I'm d-d! That's the first time I heard of getting a balloon with a jam-hammer and hot language!"

The next day, October the third, a carefully planned attack on an enemy balloon back of Doullon was carried out in the middle of the afternoon by our Squadron. Montfaucon was still the center of operations for the American Army. The country was extremely difficult owing to the hills and forest along the Meuse River, all of which the Germans had amply prepared for stubborn defense. The presence of their observation balloons added one source of benefit to them which we knew could be destroyed. So we were sent out in full daylight to accomplish this end.

Avery's first air combat. Avery disabled Menckoff's motor with one of his bullets and the German pilot decided it wiser to drop down our side of the lines and surrender himself rather than take the chance of being killed trying to glide home on a crippled machine. Great was his disgust, when he landed, to discover that his conqueror was a green American pilot.

As the formation continued its patrol some distance this side of our lines Coolidge and Crocker left the rest and placed themselves a good distance the other side of Montfaucon. We found no enemy machines in our vicinity, but were not sure that they would not appear as soon as we approached the Doullon balloon.

As my watch neared the hour for attack I crept a little nearer the point of attack. Looking over the situation ahead of me some four or five miles, I suddenly saw two Spads streaking it ahead with all their speed in the direction of the balloon. I looked at my watch. It was but 3:40. Coolidge and Crocker were each afraid that the other would steal a march on him and were both so anxious to get the balloon that they disobeyed orders and had gone in several minutes ahead of the stated time. Looking around I saw that my formation of Spads were just coming up in implicit obedience to orders. But now, instead of protecting our two picked men, we would arrive there only after the ceremony was over.

As we all opened up in pursuit of the two pilots I saw advancing to cut them off from the balloon a formation of six Fokkers. Then one lone Spad seemed to appear from somewhere in the clouds and flew in to engage the Fokkers.

tion of this victory so far behind the German lines I waited about for a few moments until I saw him crash violently to the ground. I was satisfied I had destroyed him, whether anybody else ever knew it or not. In fact this victory of mine never was confirmed.

Many twisting combats were in progress as I gained again the part of the heavens above Doullon. Several machines had fallen, but whether friend or foe I could not distinguish from this distance. The Spads were scattered all over the sky and our formation was hopelessly destroyed. I determined to call them together and take them back to our lines. Our balloon was in flames, our mission ended and we were taking unwise risks fighting ten miles within the German lines where a mis-hap would drop some luckless pilots prisoners in their territory.

The enemy pilots were only too willing to let us go. As I collected my pilots about me and headed for home the Boches lost no time in widening the distance between us. I dropped back and saw that the last of the Spads had crossed the lines and were well on their way. Then, noticing something going on east of me near the city of Verdun, I made a detour to investigate it.

It was a combat between two machines that was going on just south of our front. Hastening ahead with all possible speed I arrived there at a most fortunate moment, to find that Ted Curtiss of 35 had just been forced to abandon an attack on a German L.V.G. by reason of a gun-jam. The Hun pilot was endeavoring to make his escape as I reached him from one side and a Spad that I later recognized as belonging to Ham Coolidge came in on the other.

Diving down with terrific speed I began firing at 100 yards. With my first burst I noticed the gas-tank of the enemy machine catch on fire. Ham began firing as he approached on the other side, but already the two unfortu-gale had been shot through the foot but was able to come back to his Squadron. Poor Avery had received a disfiguring wound in the face which had been neglected by the German surgeons. But he was immediately put under the best of our medical care after he was released from Germany, and will doubtless soon return to the States in as perfect condition as he left.

Chambers and I Go For Our Hanover.

It was not until the morning of October 3 that I learned that the Hanover machine which Reed Chambers and I had shot down on October 2nd, was still lying under guard of our doughboys but a mile or so north of Montfaucon. It seemed to be in good condition and the officers there had telephoned to us to send out and bring it in to our hangars. I might say in passing that it is extremely rare to find an enemy machine within our lines that has not been cut to pieces for souvenirs by the thousand and one passers-by before it has been on the ground a single hour. It is marvellous how quickly a crowd gathers at the site of a crashed machine. Motor drivers leave their trucks on the road and dash across the fields to examine the curiosity and see if they cannot find a suitable souvenir straight from Germany to carry away with them. From every direction soldiers and French peasants come running to the wreck and makes his way to the scene there is little left of the enemy machine remaining.

Up to this time the American Air Force had never captured one of these two-seater Hanover machines. We were all of us anxious to fly different types of German aeroplanes, to compare them with our own. To examine them with our own eyes, to test their engines and to see towards what improvements their designers were tending. So as soon as we heard that our victim of the second of October had passed going in. Column after column we met coming out.

Finally we left the main road and struck a slightly less congested but far more disreputable road, which led us up to the crest of the hill on which stood Montfaucon. Guns of the Americans were wounding behind us now, and ahead we heard the enemy guns steadily replying. The town itself was nevertheless occupied by some of our troops, and a V. M. C. A. hut had been opened within the ruins of a little shop on Main Street, at about the center of the winding settlement. Here we stopped and left our car at the side of the street. A long queue of doughboys stood in line waiting to get to the rude shop window where chocolate and cigarettes were being sold as far as the two V. M. C. A. officers could pass them out. We entered the side door and warmed our muddy boots before a small open fire burning in the center of the floor of what had once been the kitchen. Here we ate a lunch of biscuits and chocolate while we questioned the men as to the exact location of the aeroplane we had brought down.

A mile or so nearer the enemy trenches to the north of the town the machine was lying quite unhurt, we were informed. We again took our car and made our way slowly through the narrow and desolate streets. On both sides the stone and mortar buildings had been levelled almost flat. The streets had been completely filled with the debris of bricks, beams and rubble, but enough space had been cleared through the center to permit one vehicle to pass at a time. As we reached the edge of the town we saw one substantial building on the very topmost point of the hill which, though badly battered, still stood, the most conspicuous and most pretentious object in Montfaucon. We instantly recognized it from our numerous observations from the air. It was the residence of the Crown Prince through those early campaigns against Verdun of 1915-1916. More recently it had been occupied by the German commanding the German armies which had been opposing the American drive against the Argonne. And now it was in our hands!

Leaving the car we walked up to make an inspection of this celebrated headquarters. It stood upon a ledge of rock which hung over the hill-side from its very peak. Around its base was a huge mountain of reinforced concrete from six to eight feet in thickness. From within one caught a wonderful view of the whole surrounding country. The Meuse valley could be followed to a point well below Verdun and the whole of the Argonne patch of woods lay under the eye from this lofty tower.

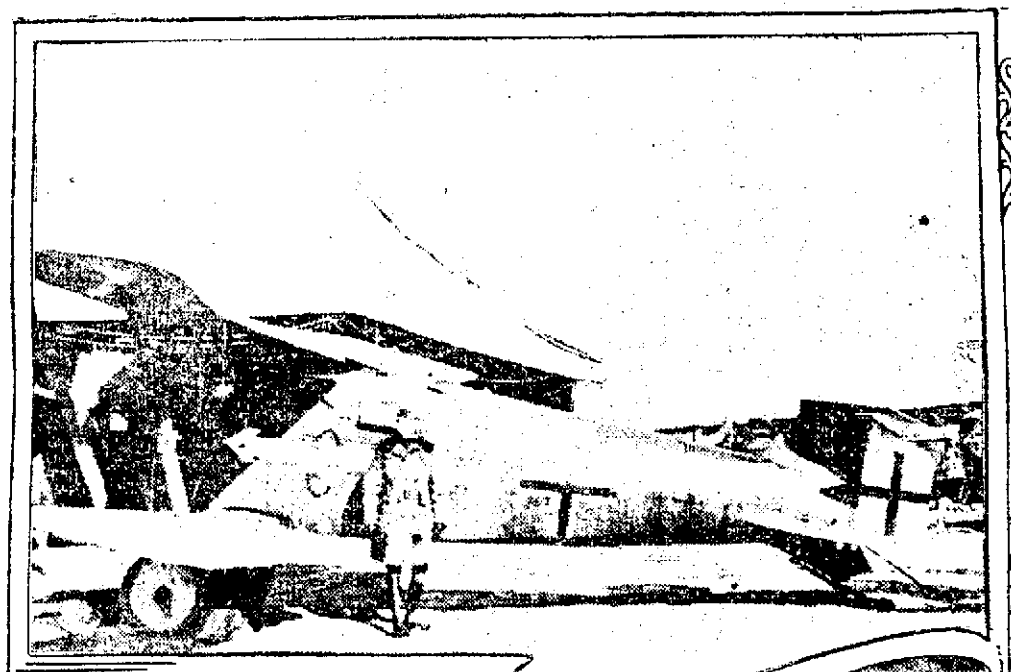

The German Hanover machine we found just beyond the town. It was indeed in remarkably good condition. It had glided down under the control of the pilot and had made a fairly good landing considering the rough nature of the ground. The nose had gone over at the last moment and the machine had struck its propeller on the ground, breaking it. The tail stood erect in air, resting against the upper half of a German telegraph pole. A few ribs in the wings were broken; but these could easily be repaired. Our mechanics with their truck and trailer had already arrived at the spot and were ready to take down the wings and load our prize onto their conveyance.

The following morning we received explicit orders to bring down an enemy balloon that was hanging above the enemy town of Maron, about four miles inside their lines. Lieutenant Coolidge and Cook armed their guns with special ammunition and, accompanied by six other planes as a protective escort, we set off early in the morning and attained undiscovered a good position behind the balloon. Coolidge started a first attack, with Cook following him in case he was unsuccessful. His first burst set fire to the target and Cookie was obliged to make a sudden bank to avoid its threat. The balloon was seen to rise a few feet, but it was not long before it began to roll over and then to come down as my first shots began to take effect.

But it was also too dark to do any observing from balloons and the Boches had hauled their Drachen down into its nest for the night. I passed the spot twice before I could make out the outline of the sleek gas-bag from my low height of only 200 feet above ground. Then taking a fresh start I made two attacks at it in its nest before I succeeded in setting it alight. It finally caught with sufficient glow to light up the whole country around, including several machine-gun pits and Archy batteries which I discovered were frantically firing at me. Their aim was bad, however, and I flew safely back to the hangars and landed to receive the information that the result of my patrol had been witnessed by our balloon posts south of Dun and confirmation already had been telephoned in.

It was my sixteenth official victory.

Next Week: WE WAIT FOR THE END.

and I took the right and at almost the same time began firing. I had let go two rounds when I saw my man falling, and again at almost the same point on Reed ceased firing and his man too dropped out of line and began his last landing. The rest of the formation fell straight on into their own lines and we were unable to overtake them. As we turned back we saw our two victims crash almost simultaneously fully a mile back of our line.

Before we reached the positions of our destruction of our four victories had been accomplished.

Lieutenant Cook, who was now looked upon as our most successful balloon straffer, had gone out this morning with Lieutenant Crocker as helper. He got an enemy balloon that hung over the eastern edge of the town of Grand Pre. Cookie now had three balloons and was becoming quite fastidious in his methods of shooting down these disagreeable targets. He naturally insisted upon special attention being given his ammunition and his guns, for he believed in making one straight dash through the circle of Archy and getting in one big burst of incendiary bullets and then leaving it alone. This returning again and again through the Archy barrage for several attacks is simply a foolish method of suicide.

At 5:30 in the morning Cook and Crocker left the field and proceeded to the Argonne. Here they located Grand Pre, but could not discover the balloon. Evidently after arousing the whole neighborhood Cook found his gas-bag suddenly peering on the ground where it was tied down into its bed. It was in decidedly a bad place for an attack, but Cook unhesitatingly stuck down his nose and began firing as he dived.

About twenty or thirty shots left his guns and then both jammed. With a string of burning words Cook turned around as he counted up over the balloon and hurled at it the small hammer or tool used by pilots for clearing gun-jams. He was so enraged over his bad luck that he did not even wait for Crocker to overtake him, but made straight for home, climbed out of his machine and marched into the Armorer's office, mad as a hatter. What language he used there neither Cook nor the Armorer's office would afterward repeat, but in the midst of his abusive descriptions of guns, ammunition, me-

During the brief melee which followed many things happened at the same time. The lone Spad fell to earth and crashed back in Germany. The balloon burst into flames, indicating that either Coolidge or Crocker had succeeded in reaching the mark despite the Fokkers. And at the same moment, the clouds behind me seemed to be emitting swarms of Fokker fighting aeroplanes which hurried themselves upon our Spads.

They were behind me, for I had distanced the others somewhat and had altered my direction to go to the rescue of the unknown Spad which had just fallen. But as I had started too late to be of any assistance I again diverted my course to attack two German biplane machines which I could distinguish coming in to the fight from the direction of Dun-sur-Meuse. I wondered whether it was Coolidge or Crocker or some other who had fallen. Whoever it was, he had made a gallant fight, although if they had obeyed orders and waited for the agreed time of attack he would not have had such odds against him.

One of the biplane machines saw me coming and bravely turned back without notifying his companion. I surprised the latter and after a very brief bit of maneuvering shot him down completely out of control. Knowing it would be extremely difficult to gain a confirma-mate occupants of the observing machine knew their coming doom. The L. V. G. descended rapidly, the wind fanning the flames into a fiery furnace. The two unfortunate aviators must have been burned to a crisp long before the ground was reached. When the crash did come there was a great explosion and all that remained of the aeroplane was a black cloud of smoke and dust that ascended a few yards and was scattered to the four winds.

Adjusting matters that night I found that Ham Coolidge was the hero of the day with the balloon and one Fokker to his credit besides one-half the vanishing of the L. V. G. Thorn Taylor, Will Palmer and Crafty Sparks had each brought down a Fokker, making a total of five, besides the two-seater that I had crashed back of Dun. Our lead was now safely beyond that of our next rival, 27 Squadron. And from that day it increased and has never been lessened.

As well as Eugene Scroggie, one of my pilots from Des Moines, Iowa, were missing I had even one Spad fall but could not tell which of these pilots was in it. But in spite of this uncertainty I felt so confident that both pilots were not dead but merely prisoners that I put off writing to their parents for weeks. At the cessation of hostilities both of these boys were turned back to us by Germany. Scrogluded without crashing and was being cared for near Montfaucon we lost no time in getting into an automobile and making our way to the front lines.

It was raining the morning we set off and no flying was likely to be possible until after midday at best. We ran west and north until we struck the eastern edge of the famous Argonne Forest at Varennes, and there we began to get graphic pictures of the gigantic artillery duel that had been going on for the last fortnight between the American forces and the Germans. The roads from Varennes to Montfaucon were almost entirely made. Along both sides of the road for as far as the eye could reach the shell holes covered the landscape as thickly as in almost any part of No Man's Land. The soil was the familiar yellow clay. Since the rainfall the country through which we were passing resembled a desolate fever-stricken swamp.

Trees were sheared of their branches and even the trunks of large trees themselves were cut jaggedly in two by the enemy's shells. Occasionally the ugly base of a dud shell could be seen protruding six or eight inches from the tree's trunk. The nose had buried itself squarely in the tree, but for some reason the shell had failed to explode.

Occasionally we would find ourselves blocked as the whole procession came to a halt. Somewhere up the line a big twelve-inch gun had sizzled around across the road and had completely blocked all traffic. On several occasions we waited half an hour before the road was cleared and the procession again proceeded.

I do not know whether other observers have been impressed with the appearance of our American doughboys in the same way I have; but to me there seemed to be an extraordinary cheerfulness about the demeanor of these boys, whether they were coming in or going out of action. They were always smiling. Long lines of khaki-clad Americans marching two abreast, often engaged in conversation, were seen. Likewise marching on foot through the mud at the head of the column, all were whistling, singing, smiling as they bled along at route step. They made raucous comments as their roving eyes struck the comic or unusual in scenes around them. Falling such opportunities, they ragged one another or recalled such incidents as might be expected to excite hilarity and amusement. They invariably were a happy and cheerful lot. By MAUDE HALL.
THERE are many engaging features among the fashions for Autumn, but their variety is a matter of unfeigned interest. This, despite the handicap of their extreme simplicity. Designers evidently have almost overcome the drawback of producing models of such simple adaptability that they can be worn successfully only by women of a few representative types. Frocks that feature style and give acceptable service are pictured today.

Home Dressmaker's Corner.

A Jacket of Simple Type Interpreting the Very Latest Autumn Mode.

THE tailored suit that remains slimly correct is the best to select for Autumn wear. A model that the home dressmaker will have laine is to be highly recommended. The jacket is finished with an open front from which turns back a long pointed collar. The inset vest is removable. A narrow belt, closing at the side, holds in the fullness at the waist. In medium size the jacket requires 2½ yards 54-inch material, with ¾ yard 36-inch satin for lining and ¾ yard 27-inch material for the vest.

If the vest is made of contrasting material, the pattern should be as-ranged on the goods just as shown in the cutting guide, that is, with triple or single "T" perforations along the lengthwise fold. The back of the jacket is also laid with triple "T" perforations along the lengthwise fold.

The remaining large sections, the front, collar and sleeve, have the large "O" perforations arranged on a lengthwise thread of material. This same rule applies to the pocket sections and belt.

With the cutting finished and the perforations and notches indicated, the maker may begin the making. Turn under the front edge of front section on lines of slot perforations and stitch one inch from folded edge. Close under-arm and shoulder seams of jacket as notched. Leave under-arm seam free below large "O" perforation in front section. Turn under 1½ inch at lower edge of jacket for hem.

Next, close back seam of collar and sew to neck-edge of back with center-in pleasing fashion. If one have a taste for the ultra-modern, the two following designs, one of which is a long coat or blouse, are longer and the shoulders are snug, factors which play an important part in the development of ultra-smart designs.

A serge in self-check is used for one of the blouses which has a long gathered peplum with narrow opening at the front to show a skirt of velvet. Blue is the color of both blouse and skirt. The front is cut very deeply and filled in with a vest of knit silk, the long collar with deep points being of the same material. The sleeves are long and close-fitting.

An outstanding feature of the tailored offerings this season is the three-quarter jackets, with varied indentation at the waistline and peplums either plain, embroidered or trimmed with large pockets. Belts may be anything from a string to a girdle several inches deep.

Another pretty style for a costume with long blouse has the peplum trimmed with a very deep band of self-material—velvet, by the way, is dark brown velvet. This band is stitched along the upper edge, except at the sides, where it is released to form deep pockets. The front of the blouse is cut into a deep V and filled in with a vest of tan satin. The neck is collarless, but on either side of the front the blouse is trimmed with broad plaits that simulate revers.

The newest jackets declare their independence of belts and similar restrictions, especially if the skirt is held in at the lower edge after the fashion of so many of the newest front and join the edges together underneath.

Close sleeve seams as notched, easing in any fullness between the notches at elbow. Leave extensions free. Turn extension under on slot perforations, lap to small "o" perforations and stitch, leaving the edges free below the large "O" perforation. Finish edges below the perforation for closing. Turn hem at lower edge of sleeve on small "o" perforations. Sew sleeve in armhole as notched with small "o" perforation at shoulder seam, easing in any fullness at top of sleeve between the seams; or, the fullness may be shrunk out. Hold the sleeve toward you when basting it in the armhole.

Slash jacket front along the line of three small "o" perforations for a pocket opening. Fold lap through the center on large "O" perforations and stitch edges together. Sew edge of lap having small "o" perforation to the upper slashed edge. Cut off one pocket section ¾ inch above small "o" perforations and sew to lower slashed edge of pocket opening. Sew another pocket section to upper slashed edge and to pocket lap. Stitch pocket sections together, matching edges.

Fold the belt through the center lengthwise and sew the long edges together matching notches. Adjust around and waist and cross at left side. Attach vest to sides and, if desired, add bands on embroidery.

BOB MARTIN, CHAMPION MAY MEET JOE BONDS IN LIMA

Plans Now on Foot to Bring These Boys Together At The Large Mid-Winter Show of The Lima Athletic Club

(BY JAMES F. BURBA.)

Bob Martin, Akron heavyweight champion fighter of the A. E. F., who is not on the trial of Champion Jack Dempsey, may fight in Lima at the huge mid-winter show now being planned by the Lima Athletic Club, if he can be brought here for any kind of a reasonable sum. His opponent has been picked, and is just the man Martin wants to meet in order that his way to Dempsey may have one less obstruction.

This opponent for Martin is Joe Bonds, who hails from Far Rockaway, New York. Once in the dim and distant past, before the United States became a desert, Bonds met Dempsey and stayed the full ten rounds with him. The Utah demon, however, got the decision over Bonds.

This offers a wonderful opportunity for Martin, as he will have a good chance to see whether or not it will behoove him to go after Jack. If he whips Bonds, Martin may step along his way, but in the event that he falls, he might as well return to Akron and make tires for a living.

That Bonds can easily be secured, there is not a doubt, as officials of the L. A. C. are in receipt of the following letter from him:

"Gentlemen:—
"I am a heavyweight boxer, only recently discharged from the navy after two years service.

"I want to box Bob Martin, the A. E. F. Champion or any other heavyweight.

"I will box for you for a very reasonable purse or percentage of the receipts.

"I have fought Jack Dempsey and have clippings which show I went ten rounds with him, although he won the decision."

The letter has been turned over to Matchmaker Wildoner who has set his snares to get the champion of the A. E. F. to signify his willingness to meet Bonds here sometime in December, the date which will be sent just as soon as other plans are formulated.

If plans now on foot work out, Lima fans will be given a treat in the way of athletics, as the mid-winter show will be larger than anything of its kind ever held in the city.

In the meanwhile everything is being put into shape for the next show which will take place Oct. 15, when Hope Mullen, Sidney Battler, will meet Marty Reese, of Franklin, who has a wonderful reputation.

THE TIMES WILL GIVE THE FANS THE BIG SERIES PLAY BY PLAY, THRU A MEGAPHONE

Two years ago when the White Sox took the baseball classic from the Giants hundreds of fans crowded the sidewalk and street in front of The Times Building, and heard the game play by play as they were made.

This year The Times again invites you, Mr. Phan, to be its guest and get the game hot off the bat.

Realizing that owing to the limited number of seats, and the great demand being made by fans, there are a great many doomed to disappointment The Times has made special effort and has secured special arrangement whereby local fans may have the opportunity of receiving the plays just as they are made, and only a few seconds later.

The only difference between the games and getting it from The Times is you will not see the players, but you will have those six berries in your pocket.

Remember, just as soon as the umpire announces the batteries, you get it, and just as soon as the plays are made you get them.

Take a little tip from the inside—be on hand early the opening day so you get up close to the building, otherwise it is very probable you will be a long way off, for indications are there is going to be SOME crowd.

GRACE D. HAS HAD A REMARKABLE CAREER

Last week the chestnut pacer mare, Grace D. 2:06 1/4, by Anderson Wilkes, won a hard race out in Indiana and when she landed in front the final heat she staged a real comeback that is interesting, for a part of the story happened right here in Lima.

A few years back the mare showed a lot of promise and after winning a number of races she was shipped to Lima to take part in one of the old Ohio Racing Circuit meetings here. In the yards she was thrown down in the car and broke her tail.

The railroad agent in Lima offered to settle for $2,500 but the owners, one of them was Mort Lane, of Elwood, Indiana, who trained and drove her, refused to take that sum. The months dragged on and no settlement was made. In a couple of years the mare suddenly swooped down on the half-mile curran again and won seven or eight races in a row. Then the railroad company claimed she was as good as ever and never did pay a cent, although the owner could have collected a cool $2,500—and still had his mare!

Jack Horner and "Doc" Best remember the circumstance well, in fact were interrogated by the railroad company's attorneys.

Later the mare tried the Grand Circuit but did not make good. Then she trained clear off and for several seasons did not win a race. Now, after acting badly the first of the season, she is back on the old winning habit again. She must be well up in years, but Lima horse fans remember her a free-legged mare of extreme speed.

"OUR BOYS" WILL MEET TWO TEAMS TOMORROW

Dayton Americans and Clark's Paulding Gang of Pastimers Will Endeavor to Trample the Locals At Murphy Street

(BY JAMES F. BURBA.)

For the first time in a long, long while, tomorrow, Friend Wife will lean over the front fence, and wonder what has become of her "Wind and Wheeze" for he is bound to be detained a little longer than usual when he journeys to the old ball yard and watches Lima stack up against two of the best teams that have donned uniforms in this city during the present season.

The first game will be called at 1:30 o'clock. Out on the field will step the Dayton Americans with blood in their eyes. Lima players have declared the Gem City aggregation will have blood all over them before the game is completed, as the pastime, itself, will be for blood. The Dayton gang has yelled hard for this contest tomorrow, even going so far as to threaten an injunction unless they were allowed to pasture here. So you may see just how humiliated they will be if the locals capture the struggle.

That is just the reason why the Holloran gang is determined to play rings around the visitors, and according to Holloran, he is going to spring a few surprises on the local fans, who come out to witness the pastime.

After the Daytonians have been defeated, or defeat, as the case may be, Harry Clark's Paulding bunch will tie themselves to the positions, and likewise endeavor to trample upon the feelings and the averages of "Our Boys." This outfit is the only team that has made the home guard work over time to win a game. Even if they come here tomorrow with their regular team you can bet your bottom dollar the contest would be torrid, but with that Clark is not satisfied.

No, he has secured several former teammates of his, who are pasturing in the American Association, according to information received from him. That is bound to make the contest all the more torrid, for unless he has some players of rare ability and class, the locals will capture the struggle, they say.

Owing to this double bill, there will be a small "bust" in the price of admission. Not very much, but enough so that the local management will not have to go very deep in debt to give the fans a large afternoon of the national pastime. Tomorrow the prices of admission will be 50 cents in the bleachers and 75 cents in the grand stand.

Every effort will be made to speed the games up so that the fans' suppers will not get cold, but you had better put a bug in your "Storm and Strife's" ear so she won't be waiting for you with a rolling pin, or a howitzer.

BATSMEN HONORS GO TO TY COBB AND "C" CRAVATH

Eddie Roush, Star Swatter of the Reds Finishes Third in National League Race—Groh is in Fifth Place

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Baseball's close finds Tyrus Raymond Cobb, star outfielder with Detroit, in possession of the American league batting championship for the twelfth time in thirteen years, Cobb, according to unofficial averages today, is leading the race with a mark of .379, twenty-nine points ahead of Yeach, his teammate and batting rival.

The figures include games of Wednesday, and the noted Georgian's official mark will not be determined until the final averages are compiled after the closing of the season Monday. The only year in which Cobb was deposed from the batting championship during his major league career was in 1915 when Tris Speaker forced him out of the coveted position.

"Babe" Ruth, the home run marvel, is in seventh place in the list of batting leaders with an average of .323. Ruth, whose achievement of driving out twenty-eight homers for a world's record, leads the league in extra base hitting, having stretched 138 safe blows for a total of 280 bases. Besides his circuit drives, Ruth has thirty-four doubles, and an even dozen of triples to his credit. He also leads in scoring, having counted 102 runs.

Eddie Collins, the Chicago second baseman, is topping the base stealers with thirty-two, with George Sisler of St. Louis next in the list with twenty-eight. Cobb and Rice of Washington are trailing in third place with twenty-seven each.

Other leading American batters for six games: Jackson, Chicago, .348; Sisler, St. Louis, .341; Tobin, St. Louis, .326; Heilmann, Detroit, .323; Ruth, Boston, .323; Jacobson, St. Louis, .322; Flagstead, Detroit,

.320; Rice, Washington, .319; Collins, Chicago, .317; Peckinpough, New York, .313.

"Gravy" Cravath, manager of the Philadelphia club, probably will win the National batting title by a margin of a few points, although the race is close. The averages show Cravath in the lead with .336, with Jim Thorpe of Boston five points behind him. Eddie Roush, star outfielder with Cincinnati, is third with .322.

Burns of New York, who crowded Heinie Groh, the Cincinnati third baseman, out of the commanding position in scoring, managed to cling to his lead of one run. Burns has registered seventy-nine scores. Zack Wheat, the Brooklyn veteran, and Roush are fighting it out for honors in total base hitting. Roush has a total of 214, while Wheat's mark is 213.

Cutshaw of Pittsburgh is in no danger of being deposed as the leading base stealer. His record of thirty-five being high. Bigbee, a teammate, is next in line with twenty-nine. Cravath's home run record of eleven remains unchallenged.

Other leading National league batters for sixty or more games: Carey, Pittsburgh, .312; Groh, Cincinnati, .311; Meusel, Philadelphia, .310; Hornsby, St. Louis, .310; Barber, Chicago, .309; Stock, St. Louis, .309; Myers, Brooklyn, .305; Holke, Boston, .297; Wheat, Brooklyn, .295.

Doble is Not Dead

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 27.—News received here today says Bud Doble, noted light harness horse driver, is not dead as recently reported from Los Angeles. He is said to be in feeble health.

Men Who Will Do the Work Behind the Bat in World's Series Games

These are the players who probably will do most of the catching during the White Sox-Reds world's series games. They are the men who know just what balls a pitcher should not throw to the batters and will signal every play. Joe Jenkins is eligible to play with the White Sox as well as Hyrd Lynn and Ray Schalk, but Schalk probably will do most of the work behind the bat. Who will bear the bulk of the burden for the Reds is more uncertain, but if Ivy Wingo and Bill Raden are put out of commission Nick Allen can be called from the bench.

Phil O'Dowd Looks Promising

The coming season, in the boxing game will furnish fight fans an opportunity of looking over a host of promising boys in all classes. The game promises to experience its most healthy growth, with scores of boys in every division showing their wares in practically every city in which boxing contests have ever been held.

Of the various divisions overflowing with talent, that of the bantams appears replete with many classy boys. A number of these fast little fellows have attracted much attention in the past, while many of the newer school are forging to the top.

In the latter class, one boy in particular should bear watching. Ohio boasts of a bantam whom many fight fans are confident will eventually attain the bantamweight crown. This little dynamo is Phil O'Dowd, whose many successes have attracted much attention throughout the Middle Western states.

COULD YOU USE $500 IN CASH.
DO YOU know of a bargain in live stock or implements that you could "snap up" cheap if you had the ready money?
COULD YOU make more money this year if you have another horse, an extra cow, a few brood sows, an automobile, or would more implements make your work easier and save you money?
DO YOU owe "Peter" and "Paul" small debts which trouble you, and which you would like to settle up?
COULDN'T you rest better, eat better, sleep better and feel more like a man, if you knew of a place where you could get what money you need when you need it?
THEN HERE IS YOUR CHANCE
YOU CAN borrow what money you need from us; any amount from $25 to $500 on your own security, no endorsers required. Your Horses, Livestock, Implements, Automobile, Furniture or Piano can be listed with us as security for borrowed money while you are using them.
YOU WILL be pleased with our easy terms, reasonable rates and courteous treatment. Every transaction Honorable, Fair, Legal and Confidential.

NOVELDA
The coming season, in the boxing game will furnish fight fans an opportunity of looking over a host of promising boys in all classes. The game promises to experience its most healthy growth, with scores of boys in every division showing their wares in practically every city in which boxing contests have ever been held.
Of the various divisions overflowing with talent, that of the bantams appears replete with many classy boys. A number of these fast little fellows have attracted much attention in the past, while many of the newer school are forging to the top.
In the latter class, one boy in particular should bear watching. Ohio boasts of a bantam whom many fight fans are confident will eventually attain the bantamweight crown. This little dynamo is Phil O'Dowd, whose many successes have attracted much attention throughout the Middle Western states.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY IN 83RD ANNUAL MEET AT HARROD

Includes Christian Denomination of Northwestern
Ohio Section

TO CLOSE TUESDAY

Annual Sermon Saturday
By Rev. Dr. E. A. Watkins, of Lima

The eighty-first annual session of the Northwestern Ohio Christian conference is in session at Harrod, and will continue until Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened Friday evening with a sermon by Rev. J. W. Kauffman, of Buckland on "The Soul of a Christian." The program over Sunday is as follows:

FARMER AND SON SUFFER BAD BURNS

While attempting to rescue articles from his barn which mysteriously caught fire late yesterday afternoon, Solomon Smith, farmer living on the Elm street road west of Lima, and his 13 year old son Ray were both badly burned about the arms and shoulders.

Smith and the boy were working in a nearby field when they saw the barn ablaze. It is believed children playing in the barn started the fire. The loss which included grain and farm implements, amounted to about $2,000.

Neighbors rushed to the scene and formed a bucket brigade, but were unable to check the blaze.

GIVEN SUSPENDED PRISON SENTENCE

After pleading guilty when presented in common pleas court on a charge of pocketpicking, Dan Cramer, was given a suspended sentence in the Ohio Penitentiary.

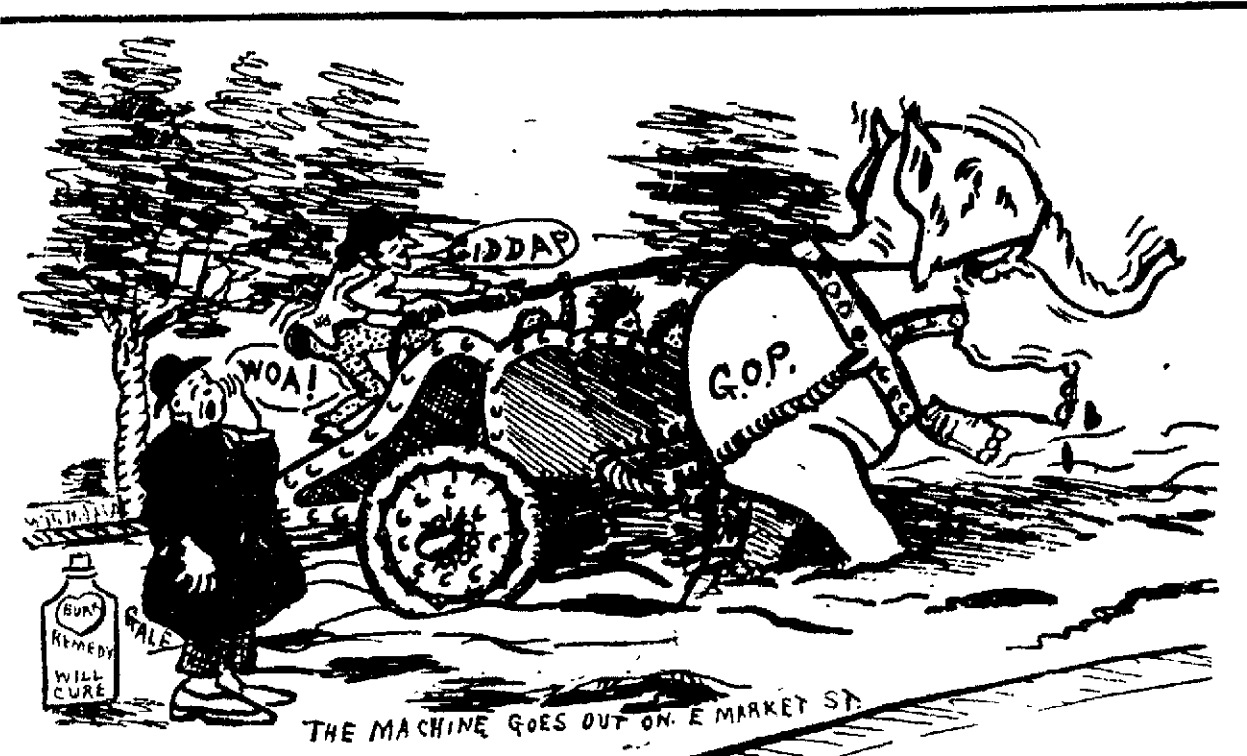

Cramer, it is alleged, in company with Art Wolcott, now serving in the penitentiary, picked the pocket of D. C. Bunn. A pocketbook containing some money and a $500 bond is alleged to have been stolen. Cramer admits the theft, but declares he did not see the bond. He further says the pocketbook was burned, as was the bond if concealed in the purse.

Judge Klinger suspended the sentence upon condition that Cramer pays Bunn for the bond. Cramer agreed.

GETTING CHILDREN READY FOR SCHOOL

Common colds are infectious and it is wrong to send a sniffling, sneezing, coughing child to school to spread disease germs among other little ones. Foley's Honey and Tar relieves coughs and colds, loosens phlegm and mucus, and coats raw, irritated membranes with a healing, soothing medicine. Contains no

"You Know Me, Al," Will Be The Slogan!

According to reports the meeting of the republican candidates for city offices held last night was "perfectly harmonious," and as the republican organ says this morning "they voted to place the management of the campaign in the hands of the committees."

Sure Mike and Cap will have charge of the committees, and the campaign will continue to be run by Cap and the rest of the old time gang, who have a throttle hold on the G. O. P. in Lima.

What the report does not say is that Al put one over on the gang and made them promise to retain him in the important city office he holds now. Al and Mayor Simpson got away with it after all, so the insiders say today. They said if Cap didn't make Colonel Harley promise to keep Al, they would run Simpson as an independent candidate.

"You know me, Al," will probably be the slogan of the campaign. Like "Simpson or Socialism," was two years ago!

In the meantime the other Republicans who were blown away by the big "Gale" just before the primary, when Rowlands was sidetracked against the will of 90 per cent of his party, are sharpening their knives and oh, boy, how they will chop that old G. O. P. ticket when ideas of November come around.

The cartoonist has drawn an apt picture of the machine going out East Market street—another tribute to a splendid republican administration. Why not put it in the Hall of Fame along with the reservoir?

COL. DAN M. SMITH TO SPEAK AT MEMORIAL HALL ON SUNDAY

The people of Lima, with have an opportunity, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, of hearing Col. Dan Morgan Smith, one of the heroes of the world war at Memorial hall.

The history of this man reads like a novel. He was born of one of the old families of Virginia, educated at a lawyer and rose high in his profession. He was judge advocate of Illinois, special U. S. attorney at Chicago, assistant corporation lawyer of the city of Chicago, a member of the bar of the U. S. supreme court, and at one time democratic nominee for congress from his district. Beside these duties he found time for the Chautauqua platform to advocate a cleaner country, and became one of the most prominent lecturers on the American platform. Then came the world's war and then, Don Morgan Smith went to a recruiting office and said "My name's Smith, and I want to join the army." So he became a private. Smith like many another of the same name, No pull for him, but plenty of push. He soon showed his worth and by the time he was ready to go overseas he was a major, attached to the 157th infantry of the 9th division. Afterwards he was transferred to the 158th infantry and commanded the first battalion in the St. Mihiel drive at Fay On Heye, Vaucy, Brany, Hill 350.4, Leshunt Chemenes, Chemenes, Verdun and the Argonne Forest.

CURB MARKET IS SMALL SATURDAY

The small crowds that visited the curb market on the public square Tuesday and Thursday mornings of this week, must have scared the producers away, as the market was only about half as large this morning as it has been on previous Saturdays, which heretofore had been the biggest sales day. Up to 8 o'clock this morning, only four or five farmers had shown up with their produce.

Cabbage was the biggest sale on the market, one farmer coming with two large truck loads, which sold for 3 cents a pound, one cent lower than Thursday's price. Celery sold for 3 cents a bunch or 15 cents for 2 bunches; endive 12 cents a pound; beets and carrots five cents a bunch or 2 cents a pound; tomatoes 2 cents a pound; gumpo, five cents a dozen; silver skinned onions 3 cents a pound; peppers five cents a dozen.

TWO NEW CONCERNS INCORPORATED IN LIMA, TOTAL $35,000

Two new Lima companies were incorporated at Columbus Saturday, the largest being the Middlestetter Grocery company which was incorporated with a capital of $25,000. J. S. Middlestetter, grocer, 417 East Kibby street and Minnie Jacobs were named as two of the incorporators. The organizations is still incomplete, but a meeting to elect officers and arrange other preliminary details has been called for the first of the week.

The second is the Lima Lubricant Company, with a capital of $10,000. Carl Rowlands, C. F. June and Walter Rowlands are named as three of the incorporators. This company has been in operation for several months with offices at 417 Holland block. At the present time they have 10 salesmen on the road selling oils and greases for wholesale and retail. The oils come here from Pittsburgh refineries and are sold direct to the consumer.

Mr. Rowlands stated today that they expect to build a warehouse during the winter, to be ready to ship their stock by spring. The location as yet has not been decided upon.

CALLED TO GRANDSON'S FUNERAL

Mrs. Cornelius McAuliffe, 957 south Elizabeth street, has been called to Marion, Ind., to attend the funeral of her grandson, James Fitzgerald, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Fitzgerald, who died yesterday following a short illness from blood poisoning. The cause of his death was very unusual, as physicians believe a green grape thrown by a companion several weeks ago, and striking the lad in the eye, caused an infection which later developed into blood poisoning.

CAN USE OLD CLOTHES

Mrs. Irene Jackson, of the Home Service has announced that the campaign for old clothes which is being held under the auspices of the Associated Charities will start Monday morning. All next week, old or half worn clothes will be collected by the department, and the week following the articles of clothing will be distributed. Families that are in need of clothing are requested to send in their orders next week. They may either call in person or by phone, but are not to entrust little children to give the parcels.

NOTED SPEAKER AT CHRIST CHURCH FOR SUNDAY MORNING

Rev. George Long, who is touring the country in the interests of the nation wide campaign of the Episcopal Church, promoting a broader field of work for the church will be the preacher at the 10:45 service Sunday at Christ Episcopal church. Rev. Long is a speaker of merit and comes with a real message to the churchmen.

ACHESON TO SPEAK

Dr. John C. Acheson who will speak at the opening men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon is no stranger to Lima. In August, 1918, he was here in the interest of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., and delivered three powerful addresses which acquainted Lima citizens, who heard him, with his power as a public speaker. Dr. Acheson is president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, one of the great educational institutions of Pennsylvania.

OVER JOYED WITH WHAT DRECO DID FOR HIS ECZEMA

Columbus Man Declares It is the Only Thing That Dried It Up For Him; Also Helped His Kidneys and Stomach.

Dreco Cleared Out His Blood and Overcame His Troubles.

Dreco has been found to be a wonderful medicine for a number of ailments, and has helped a great number of persons suffering from Eczema. Many people do not realize that the only way to positively rid themselves of this very annoying disease is to cleanse it from the blood. There are many treatments sold these days to be applied to the parts affected and as long as they are used they hold the disease in check, but they contain nothing to really drive it from the system. A medicine acting through the blood is the one sure way. That Dreco acts on the blood, driving out the impurities is proven by the signed statements from many reliable persons, who have given it a fair trial.

"I am overjoyed at the way Dreco has dried up the eczema which has bothered me for a long time," said Mr. C. T. Stoner, living at 611 Hanford St., Columbus, Ohio, a car repairer for the Hocking Valley R. R. and a strong union man, member of Scioto Lodge 611, B. R. C. of A.

"Though I had tried many remedies for Dreco to drive it from my system. Dreco also acted on my kidneys and relieved a severe backache for me. My appetite was about gone, and one or two mouthfuls were about all I could eat and I was done, but now it is sharp as ever and I eat big hearty meals, which do me a lot of good. I can't praise Dreco too highly, not recommend it strong enough." The good old-fashioned roots, herbs, barks and berries, like our forefathers brewed their teas from, and raised a hardy race of people, are still recognized as the remedies for the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood. Dreco is made from 12 herbal plants, and its action is prompt and pleasant for man, woman or child. Dreco is now sold by all good druggists and is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store.

SALVATION ARMY OPENS NEW PLACE ON EAST MARKET ST.

The Salvation Army is ever progressing with its good work in Lima. The latest development is the opening of their new Headquarters at 216 East Market street. This is a marked improvement over their old location at Union and Market on the second floor.

At the new place there is a fine commodious hall and office, all on the ground floor. This was made possible by the efforts of the new officers, Ensign and Mrs. George E. Purdum, now in charge of the Lima Corps. They succeeded Captain and Mrs. Troy Terrell this month. Ensign and Mrs. Purdum come from Toledo, where they had charge of the religious, relief, war and recreational work of the Salvation Army in that city, for the past two and a half years. The Ensign opened up what is known as The People's Recreation Center in Toledo on Superior street, just opposite the Inter-urban station, which is meeting with such marked success.

The Ensign and his wife come to Lima with a big desire to help and bless the people. They are both officers of year's experience, altho still young. The Ensign is a trombonist, soloist and concertina player, while Mrs. Purdum is a Euphonium player and pianist.
